Nevada Contractors Association, CSN Partner for Construction Career Day 2026

Oct. 23 event connects students with construction professionals and CSN education pathways

Oct. 12, 2026 - The Nevada Contractors Association and the College of Southern Nevada are teaming up to introduce Southern Nevada students to careers in construction and related industries during Construction Career Day 2026, set for Friday, Oct. 23, at CSN's North Las Vegas campus.

Hosted by the Nevada Contractors Association in collaboration with CSN's School of Advanced and Applied Technologies, the annual event connects middle and high school students with construction professionals, employers and educators through hands-on demonstrations and interactive exhibits.

Construction Career Day will take place from 9:30 a.m. to noon and will give students an opportunity to explore careers in construction, engineering, public works, architecture, construction management and other related fields.

More than 2,000 Clark County School District students have attended the event in previous years. This year, students will have the chance to see construction technology in action, work with tools and equipment, participate in demonstrations and talk directly with professionals about career opportunities in the industry.

CSN faculty and programs will also be part of the experience, helping students learn more about education and training pathways available after high school. Activities are expected to include demonstrations from CSN programs as well as experiences such as drone flights and planetarium programming.

For the Nevada Contractors Association and participating exhibitors, the event is also an opportunity to connect with the next generation of Nevada's workforce. Contractors and industry partners can showcase their trades, demonstrate the skills and technology used on the job and speak with students about career paths within their companies and across the industry.

Companies and organizations interested in participating as exhibitors can provide hands-on demonstrations, showcase construction trades and technology, and connect directly with students and educators.
